Watch Twenty-third street early in the morning just before school opens.

Hundreds of high school children walk down the street in groups of twos and threes.

There goes a girl and two boys all laughing and talking about something or other. She is wearing a middle suit while her companions wear sweaters and dirty cords.

Why is it that high school students prize their dirty cords so highly? The dirtier and greasier they are, the better they like them.

Two girls, one wearing a brown dress and the other a blue outfit, with books piled under their arms, walk slowly toward the school.

At an intersection a police officer, just due to go off shift watches the children going to the Grant school to see that they get safely across the street.

An old Ford, painted in green black and red, carrying four boys, speeds up the street. Behind it is a sedan, driven by a prim, bespectacled woman—a teacher.

A street car, loaded to the guards with a group of children waddles down the middle of the street, bell clanging.

Two boys are poking with a stick into a culvert at a street intersection. Something has been lost.

A white bread truck stops at a store and parks, the driver with a huge basket in his hand, entering the establishment.

A man wearing a blue suit, with a lunch bucket in hand, hurries in the opposite direction of the stream of children. He is late for work.

Somewhere a whistle blows. Five minutes to eight. The speed of the children increases until some start to run. Two others yell, "aw, what's the use, we're late now."

A read headed, dirty faced little girl and two companions sit upon the curb, watching the students go to school and wishing they were big enough to go to school.

And as the students pass, more than one glance jealously at the three children and wish they were young enough so they wouldn't have to go to school.

GRASS FIRE THREATENS HOMES

Fire which burned over approximately 80 acres of grass land above El Cerrito yesterday necessitated the calling of three fire departments and the work of nearly 200 men to end the danger. O. A. Burnett, El Cerrito fire chief reported.

Ten houses were saved by the work of the men who fought several hours with wet sacks, chemicals and many other devices to end the danger.

First report of the fire was given by three boys who were in the field where the blaze started. It is believed that a cigarette caused the conflagration.

Fire Chief Burnett said it was possible that the cleats on the shoes of the hikers may have struck rocks and caused sparks that might have started the blaze. The boys were hiding objects for a treasure hunt when the fire was discovered. The aided in fighting the blaze until it was under control.

The fire department which worked to quell the blaze were the Kensington, Berkeley and El Cerrito outfits.

One Knifed In
Pittsburg Fight

PITTSBURG, Oct. 29. — One man was in the county hospital with knife wounds that may prove fatal while another was a fugitive today following a boarding house quarrel that had been smoldering since Sunday.

John Nolan, 30, employee of a chemical concern is the man near death with knife wounds near his heart, through one cheek, and many other places about his body, while Nick George Koskinate is the man being sought by sheriff and police forces as the welder of the knife.

Police reported that Koskinate, who lived next to Nolan in the Espanole hotel here rapped on the wall Saturday and told the latter to "quiet his noisy party."

The following morning at breakfast they nearly clashed, it was reported and once again before the knife fight this morning.

Koskinate after he is alleged to have knifed Nolan in the presence of spectators who saw the two men in an argument in front of the hotel, ran into the building gathered a few clothes and jumped from a second story window before he could be captured.

Description of Koskinate was broadcast to officers immediately after the affray.

First Meeting
Of Chest Group
Reports $2500

The advance gifts section of the Community Chest campaign held its initial report luncheon at the Hotel Carquinez yesterday, reporting $2500 in subscriptions to date.

The committee met under the leadership of A. C. Faris, chairman, and their luncheon marked the firing of the opening gun in the effort to solicit funds for the support of the six agencies making up the Richmond Chest.

It was announced that the $2500 reported at the first luncheon represents only the beginning of this committee's work, as several of the members have been unable to interview the persons to whom they have been assigned, and others have received assurances of subscriptions but have not yet secured the checks.

"There can be no doubt that considerably more money will be realized from the work of this section," said Faris. "It is important for all givers to realize that when they give this year to the Chest they are making a combined subscription to all agencies whereas in past years they have made scattered gifts to the various welfare groups."

It was pointed out at the meeting that the present Chest effort will represent the last campaign of the kind to be carried on during the next year. A determination was expressed to raise the budget of $24,000 but in case the total falls short the six agencies of the Chest have pledged themselves in "writing not to go out in any further appeals. Work of agencies will be curtailed, expenses reduced, and if necessary a skeleton organization will be carried on pending another Chest drive."

"This should end the thought that present givers might be called upon at the end of the year to make up a deficit," said T. H. DeLap, president of the Chest. "This year we are giving once for all six agencies, and we will stick to our plan."

The campaign with the general public will open next Monday with a city-wide canvass. It was announced by W. W. Scott, general chairman of the committee.

The Martinez girl who is 13 was said to be in good health and apparently had no reason to leave her home.

RAILROAD TO

With the issuance of a map by the Great Northern railroad yesterday revealing that it will use the rails of the Sacramento Northern to gain entrance into the eastbay region, residents of Richmond were confident yesterday that this will only be temporary, pending construction of a huge terminal here.

Publication of the map lends credence to statements made in the past that the Great Northern will ultimately bring its fast trains and freights into Richmond via the Santa Fe line. The Santa Fe, it is known, is a powerful ally of the Hill group.

At the present time mysterious work is being done on the Berkeley Waterfront company's property on the Richmond waterfront. More than 300 acres of valuable industrial lands are being reclaimed, a ship's channel more than a mile in length and a wharf system fronting the entire property is being planned. This will be the site of the terminal for the railroad, it is said.

The Santa Fe railroad is also planning a huge $2,000,000 terminal development here, it was announced some time ago.

With the coming of the Great Northern here, it would mean that three trans-continental railroads would serve this city.

For some time the Sacramento Northern has been jangling heavier rails which may be used by the steam trains.

It was also reported that plans are in readiness to supplant the train ferry now used by the Sacramento Northern to cross the lower San Joaquin river between Chips and Mallard with a railroad bridge that will cost about $1,000,000.

It was at first believed that the Great Northern would enter the bay region via the Western Pacific tracks. But the map shows that the Sacramento railway line will be used, thus saving more than 30 miles.

All Dead In Mine Explosion

McALESTER, Okla., Oct. 29.—UP—Broken bodies of men who gambled daily on their lives that they might clothe and feed their families were lifted from the Wheatley coal mine here tonight while women and children turned to the charity of a stricken community.

Forty-eight hours after an explosion ripped through the mine, killing one worker instantly and entombed 29 others of the night crew, rescuers still toiled in bringing up the dead. No life was found when rescue squads broke through walls of debris in lower levels and came upon the huddled victims.

The bodies were found in groups of the 16th, 17th and 18th levels. Their positions indicated death came quickly after the blast shook the workings, dropped timber and rock from ceilings of the tunnels and left death-dealing "black damp" gas in its wake.

The Wheatley disaster swelled the toll of mine blasts this year in this country to 126 lives.

YACHT WRECK

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—UP—Six men worn to exhaustion by 44 foodless and drinkless hours at sea in a wave-tossed lifeboat were brought to shore today, survivors of the small freighter Barbados which went down with a loss of eight lives.

The six were near death last night when their voices, hysterical and hoarse, sufficiently pierced the howl of the wind to be heard by Captain William T. Davidson of the Clyde liner Mallory.

Helped aboard the Mallory, warmed and fed, the survivors told of the sinking of the Barbados and the long hours of privation, made longer by the fact that there were no flares.

Earthquakes Hit
Northern City

REDDING, Oct. 29.—UP—Four earthquake shocks in less than 12 hours made residents of this region nervous tonight.

The latest tremor, at 11:50 a. m., slightly damaged the Shasta county court house and the Redding high school.

Earlier in the morning there had been three quakes in rapid succession that had not been so severe. Some inhabitants of the city remarked that the disturbances today were similar to some felt in 1915, just before an eruption of Mt. Lassen, which is about 50 miles east of here.

The court house was cracked in several places by the quake just before noon. Judge Walter E. Harginger ordered an immediate postponement of a trial he was presiding over. Plaster fell from ceilings of the high school.

The announcement took the form of a banner line across the top of the front page bearing the text: "Elect State Senator J. M. Inman to Congress, Third District."

The Napa publisher indicated he believed Senator Inman's active public record as a legislator and a citizen, in support of projects of importance in the territory embraced in the third district, make him a more ideal congressional possibility than his opponent.

BRONCOS, GAELS WILL MEET SUNDAY

ST. MARY'S COLLEGE, Oct. 29.—While most of the larger colleges on the Pacific slope are resting from rough battles of last week and taking on teams they are figured to beat easily, Saint Mary's and Santa Clara meet at Kezar Sunday in their annual battle.

Though it settles no grid championships, this contest has for the past eight or nine years afforded the grid fans some of the best football seen in northern California. St. Mary's has succeeded in winning for the last five years, but the Broncos have held the scores down and made the games torrid struggles.

Both teams won handily from their opposition last week. Saint Mary's taking a badly battered Gonzaga team into camp, 41 to 0, and Santa Clara upsetting the highly-touted Olympic Club by a decisive 14 to 0 defeat.

Santa Clara's reversal of form in beating the clubmen has thrown a scare into the Moraga campus, and Madigan and his men are drilling hard for the contest. With their game against the unbeaten and unscored Fordham team just a week or two away, the Gaels want to go back to New York with a good record. Both Santa Clara and the Olympic Club remain to be met before the Gaels' entrain for their coast-to-coast trip, and they must be taken in stride.

Not even the most ardent estimator would attempt to give any sure pre-game dope on the Saint Mary's game with the Broncos. Percentage football, comparative scores, yardage and all the other calculations when these two Catholic schools get out on the field. The so-called "ancient rivalry" surges to the top and one grand football battle ensues to keep the fans and the loyal alumni jumping from their seats until the last gun.

Several slight injuries have been recorded in the Gael line-up, but they are not expected to hurt the Gaels much. Two regulars, Toby Hunt, tackle and Dick Sperbeck, end, did not see action against Gonzaga, while John Brown, tackle and Bill Beasley, half, were slightly scuffed against the Gonzagans.

Saint Mary's line has been extremely aggressive this season, not failing to block a kick in any of the games played, and allowing very few touchdowns from scrimmage. Frank McNally, his tackle has looked especially good.

Madigan's backfield clicked well last Sunday, gaining nearly 500 yards against Gonzaga. Several new and tricky plays gave evidence that the Gael attack is developing rather slowly, but that the power is there.

Sunday's game and all the November Gael contests will begin at 2 o'clock instead of 2:30.

Stribling recently declined a similar offer from Sharkey, but the negotiations have been resumed. Stribling meets Arthur De Kuhl at Spiller Field here Nov. 11.

Charity Grid Game In East Meets Trouble

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 29.—UP—Agitation for a charity football game between the universities of Michigan and Detroit continued today, despite an adverse decision of the Western conference on a somewhat similar case of Notre Dame and Northwestern.

The Detroit city council adopted a resolution calling upon the University of Michigan "as an institution supported by tax payers" to accept the University of Detroit's challenge for a game Thanksgiving Day.

Michigan university officials have taken no definite stand on the challenge, although Prof. Ralph W. Aigler, chairman of the board of athletic control has called a meeting of the board to discuss it Saturday.

Snake Takes Sun Bath Like Humans

LONGMONT, Colo.—Snakes have taken to sun baths. Dorothy and Doris Young out on a picnic, ran across a rattlesnake so busy sunning itself that it refused to budge at their approach.

MONTANA WILL MEET BEAR ELEVEN

BERKELEY, Oct. 29.—Boasting a line of bone-cushing proportions and a fleet, veteran backfield, the University of Montana football team will invade Berkeley next Saturday to meet the Golden Bears of California in what will be the third conference game of the season for both teams.

The Bears, after dropping their game last week to Washington and faced as they are with an impending struggle with Southern California at the Los Angeles coliseum, are ill-prepared to take the game in stride, but they can't afford to do otherwise.

Coach C. M. 'Nibs' Price, apparently deferring to the ancient adage concerning forewarnings, has already started an intensive drive in practice to equip his men with proper weapons of offense and defense for the meeting with the Trojans. Meanwhile Major Frank Milburn is taking advantage of the situation like a true military tactician and in the final practice sessions at Missoula is pointing his team for the Bears.

The Montana coach will bring nearly three complete teams to Berkeley, a larger squad than usual. The Grizzlies will arrive at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

The Golden Bear line will give the Grizzly line about four pounds weight advantage to the man, for the Montana forward wall averages 194 pounds. The biggest lineman is the 222-pound guard, George Snyder, a veteran of two seasons who rejoices in the picturesque sobriquet of "Crunch." Other big linemen are George Muhlick, the other guard, Frank Spencer and Henry Murray, tackles and Emil Percy, star of the 1929 California-Montana game.

The Elkegren brothers, Waldo and Kermit, return to the lineup: the former at halfback and the latter at quarter. It was the 162-pound Waldo Elkegren who smashed through the Bear line for big gains in one 45-yard drive in last year's game and who finally punched through for 12 yards and a touchdown in two plays. Elkegren also scored on an intercepted forward pass from "Moose" Garrity. Kermit Elkegren succeeds Jimmy Morrow, the peppery field general who ran 75 yards for the third Montana touchdown last year.

Coach Price's plans, at this stage of the preparations, are definite, but it is likely that he will use his first string extensively if for no other reason than to give his men further opportunity to study pass defense. Weakness in this department of the game has been costly. Montana plays the passing game with success.

Against Washington the Grizzlies were able to complete passes for a total yardage of 112 yards, making good nearly 50 per cent of their chances. On the ground, however, they were held to 55 yards on running plays.

California and Montana have played in two previous games, behind to win 33 to 13, and last. In 1927 the Bears came from season defeated the Grizzlies 53 to 13.

DUFFIELD HELD STAR OF CLASS

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—UP—Introducing Marshall Duffield, quarterback on the University of Southern California football team, star student—and perhaps someday Phi Beta Kappa and a representative of the state of California at historic Oxford University in England.

Quite an impressive introduction to a tow-headed youngster of 20 years, who is known to most sport fans over the nation because of his ability to run with a football for the glory of Old Alma Mater.

However, those who know Duffield best say that the introduction is not out of order and they are willing to wager dimes or coonskin coats that "Marsh" will win both the Phi Beta Key, significant of highest scholarship and the Cecil Rhodes award, which will permit him to continue his education at Oxford.

Duffield has been named as one of the two Southern California students eligible to compete against other colleges and universities in this district next September for the coveted Rhodes scholarship. This elimination is the first of a grueling series.

As soon as the present football season is over, Duffield, who despite four strenuous years on the frosh and varsity teams, never has lagged behind in his school work, will oil up the old study lamp in earnest and hit the books.

Duffield is not the type one would pick for a star quarterback or a class A student. His wide grin and uncombed yellow hair; his corduroy trousers and unkempt "SC" sweater, have marked him as a typical "Joe College" youth. Yet football coaches and professors alike will say that when Duffield has his serious moments in either field those moments are serious.

During the university year Duffield lives at the Sigma Chi house. He is active in all its functions and is not rated as much of a greasy grind as many members who fall far below him in monthly marks.

Every week-end when he is not tied up with football, Duffield goes home to visit his mother in

Scholar

AT least that's what rumor says about Marshall Duffield University of Southern California's rip-snortin' quarterback. Duffield is one of the two Southern California students eligible to compete against others for the coveted Rhodes scholarship.

Santa Monica, an ocean suburb of Los Angeles. It has been noticed that he always takes a few books along with him as well as a bathing suit. Along this line, his football suitcase during the season always contains some books on subjects Duffield feels he might brush up a bit.

The athlete-student is majoring as a senior in economics in the School of Liberal Arts, pointing toward a career in international commerce.

His late father and grandfather probably contributed much toward his dual ability in books and football, as both were prominent athletes and scholars during their student days at Harvard.

BOY DECLARED BIG GAME HUNTER

STANFORD, Montana, Oct. 29.—UP—Johnny Hardenbrooke is a big game hunter, and has been since he won his spurs and the right to carry a gun by convincing his parents he could shoot mice with an air rifle.

Johnny is only nine, but his skill as a stalker, his prowess with trap and rifle, have brought a measure of fame. Johnny lives at the edge of Jefferson forest a region abounding in game. His mother is an expert horsewoman; his father a crack rifle shot.

The boy's first venture with game game resulted in the capture of 14 coyote pups—"and I got 46 fleas from each one of them," he remarks.

Johnny tracked the mother coyote for days before finding her lair. She doubled and back-tracked walked through the water and used every artifice to protect her young. But Johnny was persistent. At last he found the den, and, after a long vigil, was rewarded—the mother went away in search of food.

Most of the coyote pups he brought home alive. It was his first experience, and one that stimulated him to seek bigger game.

Meanwhile, he needed a rifle, an honest to goodness gun. But guns were expensive. Then the boy heard of a contest for boys and girls, a campaign to exterminate rodents and predatory animals. The boy nearly turned into a copper during the contest. He burrowed and dug and trapped and shot, and after weeks of hard work he won first prize a .22 caliber rifle.

Then came his big chance, a family of brown bears had moved into the mountains nearby. Johnny went in search of them. Encountering one, a 200 pounder, he opened fire and despite the small-caliber gun, killed it.

Since that great event, Johnny has added many coyotes, badgers and lesser game to his long list of kills, and now he is looking forward to a trip this winter after elk.

He pointed out that the understanding of the human organism, the child, was the future work of the P. T. A.

DENNY STARRER IN THOSE 3 FRENCH GIRLS

Reginald Denny and Fifi Dorsay head a dazzling cast in "Those Three French Girls," Metro-Goldwyn Mayer's captivating farce of life in Gay Paree, which will open today at the Fox-California Theater for two days.

The plot of this talkie farce, concocted by Dale Van Every and Arthur Freed, is reported to contain a laugh in every reel and a howl in every line of its dialogue, which was written by P. G. Wodehouse, internationally known humorist.

The action centers about the fun-loving nephew of a British earl, played by Denny, who goes to Paris for a good time and finds it in the company of two American ex-doughboys and three charming mademoiselles. Complications occur when the nephew brings the girls to his uncle's home in the attempt to interest his rich relative in backing a modiste's shop. Al would have gone well had not the uncle fallen in love with the very girl whom the nephew had picked out for himself. But all the difficulties are ironed out in the end in a rollicking manner.

Spanish Gains In Popularity In U. S. Schools

WASHINGTON.—More than a quarter of a million children in the American public schools, are studying the Spanish language, according to figures furnished the United Press by the Bureau of Education.

This constitutes one pupil in each ten registered in the schools and is upwards of four times as many as are registered in schools of the corresponding grade in Spain itself. Moreover, the number is showing "a steady and consistent increase."

This attention to Spanish is considered all the more extraordinary by experts, because of the fact that 25 years ago the number of pupils studying the language was so small that they were not even mentioned among the official lists of languages.

U. C. L. A. Savant At Chicago Musical

LOS ANGELES.—Professor G. S. Mannus, chairman of the department of music at the University of California at Los Angeles, is in Chicago, attending the festival of chamber music, sponsored by Mrs. Elizabeth S. Coolidge, in Chicago. The festival opened Sunday, October 12, and will continue until Thursday, October 16, and includes a series of concerts made up largely of contemporary music written on special commissions for Mrs. Coolidge. This will be the occasion of the first performance of works by Hindemith, Charles Martin, Loeffler, Frederick Stock and other famous composers.

On account of the strictly invitational nature of this international musical event, the attendance of Professor Mannus was considered a particular distinction for the university. While in Chicago he is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Ericson, the latter being the daughter of Ambassador Charles G. Dawes. Mrs. Coolidge is known all over the United States and Europe as a generous and practical patron of chamber music.

MORE WORK FOR JOBLESS OF STATE

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 29.—UP.—Gov. C. C. Young has announced he would take under immediate consideration the suggestion of Will J. French, state director of industrial relations, that he appoint a state unemployment committee.

He indicated he would consider selection of two separate groups, one to act in San Francisco and the other in Los Angeles. He pointed out it would be necessary for him to find prominent citizens willing to serve without pay, as no funds are available at present for such a committee.

Bert B. Meek, director of the department of public works announced the state would start within the next few weeks four camps to employ 2000 men who would use pick and shovel for the work now done by steam shovels. "This is not the economic thing to do," Meek said, "but employment of these men will have a psychological effect, as it will eliminate bread lines in the big cities to a large extent."

Wages will not be large, he said, but the men will have board and room through the winter months. A million dollars will be used, divided equally between the northern and southern parts of the state. Sites for the camps have not been decided.

Governor Young said this plan was satisfactory but there would still be work for the proposed unemployment committees as it would not take care of those out of work who are not accustomed to manual labor.

Valona Store Robbed By Gang Of Thieves

CROCKETT, Oct. 29.—For the third time in recent years the Valona Emporium was broken into and robbed when thieves took approximately $800 worth of jewelry and wearing apparel this morning after they had broken glass in the front door to gain entrance.

Sheriff's deputies were carrying on an investigation today following report of the burglary by Lawrence Vail, manager of the store to W. F. Wilson and E. J. Lancaster.

A woman asleep in a house near the store reported that at approximately 3 o'clock this morning she heard the crashing of glass, but did not investigate at that time.

Officers expressed the opinion that the robbery was committed by a gang of thieves who have been operating in Contra Costa county during the past few weeks. A burglary in Antioch of a similar nature was committed two weeks ago.

COUNTIES HIT BY HEAD OF TAX GROUP

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 29.—UP—Juggling of tax burdens, reassessments and shifting of tax bases will never bring tax relief, Dr. Milbank Johnson, of Los Angeles, chairman of the California Tax association, declared in an address to the western Taxpayers' conference which convened here today.

"At best," he said, "it is merely the old game of robbing Peter to pay Paul."

Dr. Johnson, discussing public expenditures, spoke to more than 50 delegates representing practically every state in the west. He pointed out that control of these expenditures is the first move in solution of the tax problem.

Control of expenditures through reorganization and centralization of state government has been a failure, he said, adding the reason for this was due to the fact local government structures were ignored.

"This particular control method," Dr. Johnson declared, "could operate more effectively if county, municipal and district governments which obtain in state administrative reorganization."

"County governments are still the dark continent of American politics." Conditions in Chicago and other great municipalities still tend to prove "government of cities is the one conspicuous failure in the United States."

Solution of the tax burden in Nevada and Idaho is based on a hope of county consolidation, delegates from these commonwealths said.

Nevada might profit in its taxation problem, F. N. Fletcher, tax expert of that state, said, by reducing the number of counties to at least half a dozen.

In Idaho, E. M. Sawyer, Oregon Short Line railroad expert, declared a reduction in counties would aid in solving the situation in that state.

The delegates were welcomed at the conference by Governor John C. Phillips, of Arizona. He said taxation was the basic cause of the American revolution and thereby an outstanding problem of state.

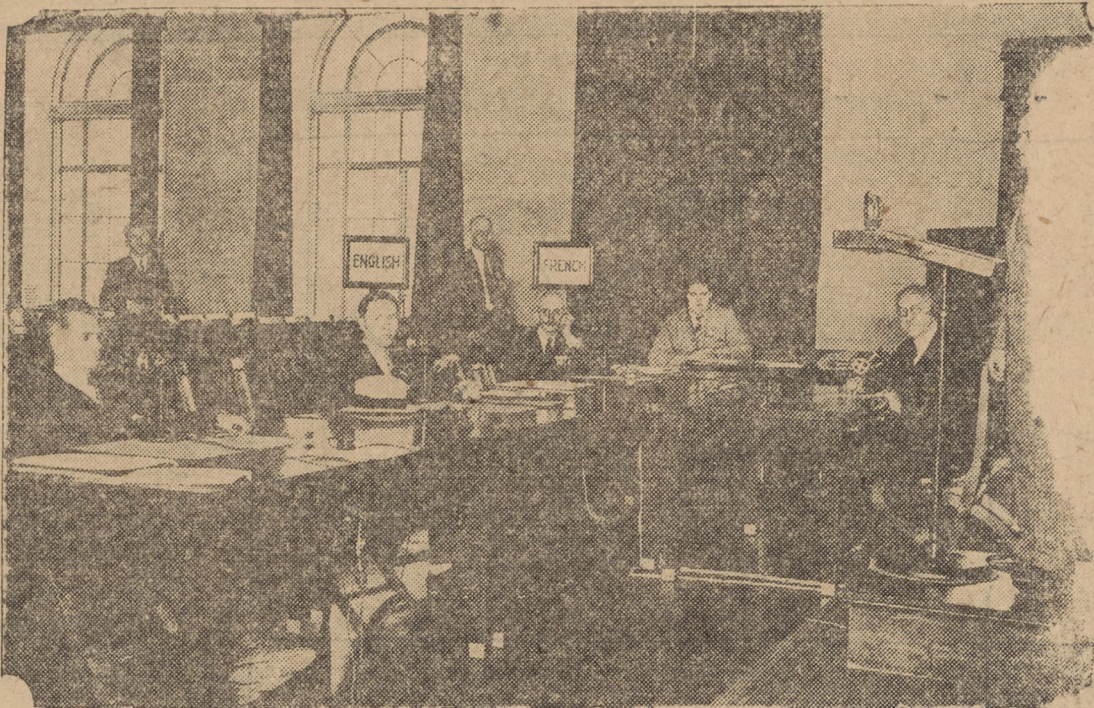

Brick Works To Resume Activity

Work on a large brick order by Richmond Pressed Brick company was being gotten ready today following announcement yesterday of plans to supply the building materials for a plant being constructed by the Pacific Gas and Electric company in Auburn.

Installation of new machinery costing approximately $75,000 now complete will add greatly to the plant's value, it was said.

Employees who have been laid off recently due to the lack of work were looking forward to the resumption of activities. Bricks for the new Ford plant will also be made here, it was reported.

Old Problem Solved

THE difficult problem of holding an international meeting in such a manner that all of the representatives of the sixty nations participating may understand all speeches has been solved at the international road congress at Washington by a battery of interpreters who repeat the remarks being made over a miniature broadcasting network. Each delegate's seat is equipped with a telephone receiver.

Mrs. Vargas In Plea For Divorce

MARTINEZ, Oct. 29.—Divorce action was instituted in Superior court here today by Mrs. Mary P. Vargas of Richmond against her husband Frank M. Vargas. The suit alleges that Vargas deserted his wife in 1921 after they had married in 1903. Clifford Anglin, Richmond attorney is representing Mrs. Vargas.

GASOLINE USE DECLARED ON INCREASE

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 29.—California motorists rolled up a new high record for gasoline consumption during the past three months, with the state tax on this commodity totaling $10,608,817.93 according to an announcement today by Fred E. Stewart of Oakland, member of the State Board of Equalization from the second district.

During July, August and September there were 357,199,256.8 gallons of gasoline distributed in California, a gain of 6.8 percent over the corresponding figure for 1929, Stewart said.

"The three cent tax on gasoline for this year will bring to the state treasury something over $40,000,000," Stewart declared.

"It is estimated that during the next ten years the state will have $600,000,000 available from this source of revenue. This tremendous sum would enable California to build the finest system of highways in the world. But the imperative need for relief to tax burdened property owners may necessitate revision of distribution of at least part of the gasoline tax."

"Many organizations interested in state government have been studying this possibility, asserting that substantial reduction in property taxes could be effected through a new method of distributing the gasoline tax."

"It is not impossible that the next legislature may be presented with some such plan."

Youth At Target Practice Arrested

BERKELEY, Oct. 29.—UP—Police Officer Charles Insen was trying to find out the direction from which a bullet that narrowly missed Mrs. B. C. Ruckli had been fired here today.

"It came from the same place that one did," Mrs. Ruckli screamed as both dodged under another bullet.

Insen crept to the window ledge and peeked over. In an adjoining back yard a small boy had made tin pan targets set on a fence. He was reprimanded as a poor marksman and the rifle seized.

UNIFORM AUTO LAW IS ASKED

WASHINGTON.—A universal system of licensing automobile drivers, in which all applicants would be required to take an examination to determine physical fitness and skill is to be urged by the American Motorists Association before the state legislatures meeting this fall.

In a recent survey made by the association it is pointed out that only 12 states, and the District of Columbia, require a mandatory examination as to fitness and skill in driving a car.

In announcing intention of the association to place before the legislatures this plan for universal requirement, Thomas J. Koester, general manager, stated that merely granting of a permit without this examination offers no solution towards barring the unskilled driver from the highways.

The laws proposed by the association and its member clubs will include among other things an eye-sight test, with the requirement that any defect be corrected before granting of the license.

Plant Breeding Overcomes Wilt Of Watermelon

DAVIS, Oct. 15.—Watermelon wilt, caused by a soil and seed borne fungus, is being overcome as a result of plant breeding work by Dr. D. R. Porter, plant pathologist in the University of California college of agriculture. Resistant strains that yield well even when ordinary varieties are destroyed, have been developed that promise to overcome the trouble caused by wilt.

Dr. Porter began this work while with the Iowa State College, and coming to Berkeley was permitted to bring seeds of variety resistant to wilt, to California. These he has found to be resistant here as well, and he has been improving by breeding and selection in work at the branch of the College of Agriculture and in fields near Lodi.

Four good strains on Kleckley Sweets have been developed, but his work on the Klondike, the popular variety in this state, has not gone far enough to give definite results. The breeding and selection is to be continued, although under an agreement with the Iowa college no seeds may be sold until that institution is ready to place them on the market.

Watermelon wilt is most prevalent in California in the San Joaquin and Sacramento valleys, although there has been some trouble from the disease in Imperial Valley.

Fire Department Saves Biscuits

ALBANY, N. Y.—"Fireman save my biscuits!" cried William J. Gary as he returned from the grocery to find the lock had snapped on her door. Locked out and knowing the biscuits were rapidly passing the browning stage in the kitchen oven, Mrs. Gary rushed to a neighbor's telephone and called the fire department. The fire ladies hoisted a ladder to a window, and saved the biscuits.

DEATH DELAY DISCUSSED AT MEET

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 29.—UP—Means of postponing death, described as the greatest cause of human fear and a determining factor in human conduct, were discussed here today among more than 1200 physicians attending the American Public Health association convention.

Eminent doctors participated in the sessions, arriving here from cities in both North and South American countries.

Among statements contained in reports read before various sections of the convention were:

Prohibition has caused an increase of 300 percent in the death rate.

Persons do not die because they get degenerative diseases, but get such diseases because they are dying.

Newly settled territory is likely to be more healthful than old centers of population because the land has not been demoralized and its products are, consequently, more sustaining.

Dr. Weston A. Price, Cleveland, Ohio, read a paper before the joint food, drug, nutrition and child hygiene section, in which he attributed degenerative diseases, such as those of heart and kidney, to breakdown in bodily functions.

The disease follows the breakdown, Doctor Price said, and strikes the victim when he already is dying.

Lease Tells Of Fight With Scribes

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 29.—UP—Rex Lease, whose name has been mixed up with impromptu fights more than the screen of late, explained today what happened in a local newspapermen's club when his party ignored an invitation to leave and was ejected after a battle.

Lease said that he took eight persons, including Ralph Ince, film producer, Henry Clive, magazine artist, and Ollie Price, oil man, into the club rooms on his guest card. When he prepared to leave, the others were informed that club rules demanded that the party leave with its sponsor.

Ince objected and took a punch at the club president, then swung at him with a chair. A waiter promptly hit Ince over the head. Waiters and newspapermen who resented the conduct of the non-members joined the affray.

Coast Vessel Long Over Due

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—UP—The fishing boat Sonny Boy, registered to John M. Duzich of Los Angeles and carrying a crew of at least five men, was two days overdue here tonight.

Coast guard headquarters was notified that the Sonny Boy left Monterey Sunday night and should have reached here in 10 hours.

The ship, 68 feet long and of 52 tons displacement, had no radio and apparently had not been sighted by any vessels traveling along the coast.

Three Hunted On Girls' Charges

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—UP—Three men were sought tonight on charges of brutality made against them by two 13 year old girls who had run away from home.

The girls said they had lost some school books, and fearing punishment from their teacher had started to walk to Hollywood. At Belmont, south of here near Palo Alto, they said three men offered them a ride. Against their protests, they claimed, the men turned around and came back to San Francisco, forcing them into a small shed, which they pointed out, and attacking them.

14 Killed In Geneva Train Wreck

GENEVA, Switzerland, Oct. 29.—UP—The death toll in a wreck of the Bordeaux Express early today reached 14 tonight. Six of the 30 badly injured died in hospitals.

The express train, travelling 60 miles an hour, leaped from the rails. The two heavy locomotives dragged six of the 12 carriages with them, shattering three of the coaches and resulting in eight persons being killed outright.

Powder Company Head Dies From Heart Attack

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 29.—A heart attack was today responsible for the death on the street here of Carl Bierbaer, former superintendent of Hercules Powder plant at Hercules.

Bierbaer was returning from a sanitarium where he had been under treatment for heart ailment, when he collapsed and died. It was believed that when he left the institution he had recovered sufficiently to go to his home.

Previous to his assumption of the management of the Hercules plant he was the assistant of E. R. Armstrong. Bierbaer was 51 years of age. He was not married.

WOMEN ASKED TO AID IN RELIEF

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—UP—American women were called upon by Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of President Hoover's emergency committee for employment, to organize as in war-time to fight "the intangible enemy—human suffering."

Woods, speaking before representatives of women's clubs of six states before returning to the committee's headquarters in Washington, outlined several ways in which aid could be given.

Women could help, he said, by spending money on long-delayed improvements in the home, by assisting communities in local relief work, by approving wise bond issues at the polls and by discussing with their husbands and children in the home the economic situation and means to better it.

"In war time," Woods told his listeners, "Mr. Hoover called upon the women to conserve food. They put over that tremendous task. If that was an emergency we have another now, and again Hoover calls on the women for support."

"Our enemy in war-time was another nation. Now our enemy is human suffering. The enemy is trying to assault our own people."

"No good American prefers relief to a job. But hundreds of thousands of good Americans cannot get jobs, through no fault of their own. These people present a community obligation, and they must be taken care of. That is a matter for each locality to decide for itself."

All the Comforts of Home for the Working Girl

NEWS of the award of prizes by Mrs. Oliver Harriman in a food budget contest for business women at the Exposition of Women's Arts and Industries emphasizes a comparatively new development in the life of the self-supporting young woman in New York. In ever-increasing numbers she is managing to combine the privacy, the economy, the comfort of a home of her own while holding down the job which supports it.

That pathetic person, the ill-nourished working girl marooned in a lonely hall bedroom, still exists, of course, but there is another girl who is an encouraging sign of new times. Not for her the dingy furnished room, the scanty and badly balanced meals in cheap restaurants that are never cheap enough to feed her properly.

She is the young person who realizes that, when salaries are small, in union there is strength. When it comes to living arrangements she hunts in couples, trios, quartets. Two girls, three, or four pool their wages, hire a small apartment, prepare their own meals (except lunches) and create for themselves a life far more normal, healthy and happy than that of the old-style working girl immured in her solitary cell.

Furthermore, this new technique of living should reassure the doubtful ones who have deduced that by taking a job outside the home, the modern girl loses ability and taste for home-making.

PESSIMISTS seem to have been too ready to borrow trouble about the destruction of woman's home-making instinct. Hear it speak through the mouths of the budget prize winners among the business women who also keep house: Miss Marie Trachel, who won $50 for the best food budget for women earning from $30 to $50 and cooking for themselves, says:

"My apartment is a two-room affair with a very modern kitchen and dining combination, all of it just crying aloud for you to mix your own meals. After restaurant food for several years, I heeded that cry with utmost joy."

Miss E. Eda Eden, who is a real estate saleswoman with a drawing account of $50 a week and who cooks meals not only for herself but for a schoolboy relative, declares:

"We tried restaurant living for a while, and decided that, from every angle, it was worth the trouble to eat at home. When we ate in restaurants we had less food, more expense and the trouble of hunting up a peaceful place to eat. I am all for the business woman's getting up an hour earlier in the morning to prepare the food for the day."

IT SO happens that we are intimately acquainted with three business beginners who have adopted this new combination of home and job with success and satisfaction. Dorothy, Clara and Ruth, two of them working in a department store, one a private secretary, have a four-room furnished apartment. They take all the care of it and prepare their breakfasts and dinners. They budget their expenses and see regular contributions of money and work. They get breakfast, but leave the dishes until night. The first one home starts dinner, and after dinner all three pitch in and wash the accumulated dishes. Once a week the apartment gets a thorough cleaning, and the girl who spends Sundays at the home of her parents makes a point of doing her share of the dusting and sweeping on Saturday afternoon.

Each contributes $3 a week to the "pussy"—the food allowance. Naturally, it doesn't run extensively to steaks and chops, but it includes plenty of fruit and green vegetables and a fair allowance of milk, while delicious but expensive and non-nutritious pastries are sternly barred. Of course, the young women occasionally get into a financial hole by the end of the week—but older housekeepers with more funds have been known to do likewise.

Of course, too, they make fun of one another's cooking—Dorothy is supposed to be afraid of the frying pan, Ruth is never allowed to forget this rare roast, and Clara is accused of soggy gray hash. But they learn by their mistakes, and they have a delightful sense of freedom, of companionship, of cozy home life which is worth all the extra work. Furthermore, they get far more for their money than the girls who board, or who live in furnished rooms and "eat around."

A TISH A DAY

and little competition prices have risen without apparent reason, but in the chain stores and in highly competitive districts the best and real fare is still available. In New York City more veal is consumed per capita than in almost any other section of the country, and this is probably due to our great foreign population. Scandinavians, Central Europeans and Italians have famous national dishes that are concocted with veal as the main ingredient. As you doubtless know, the Scandinavian touch is cooking with sour cream and flavoring with a dash of nutmeg. More acceptable to the general taste is the Hungarian fashion of cooking veal, and that is

Linens for All Occasions

A READER asks whether white table cloths are passe and what she should buy in table linens. Colored cloths are now popular for breakfast and luncheon, but housewives prefer white for the dinner cloth and have at least one white satin damask cloth, the three-yard length for the formal dinner, and, of course, napkins to match.

For an informal dinner oblong runners are often used and these will do nicely for the formal luncheon. These may be in damask or linen with lace applique. There are handsome runner sets, consisting of the runner, eight doilies and eight napkins in cut-work and linen embroidered with cut-work.

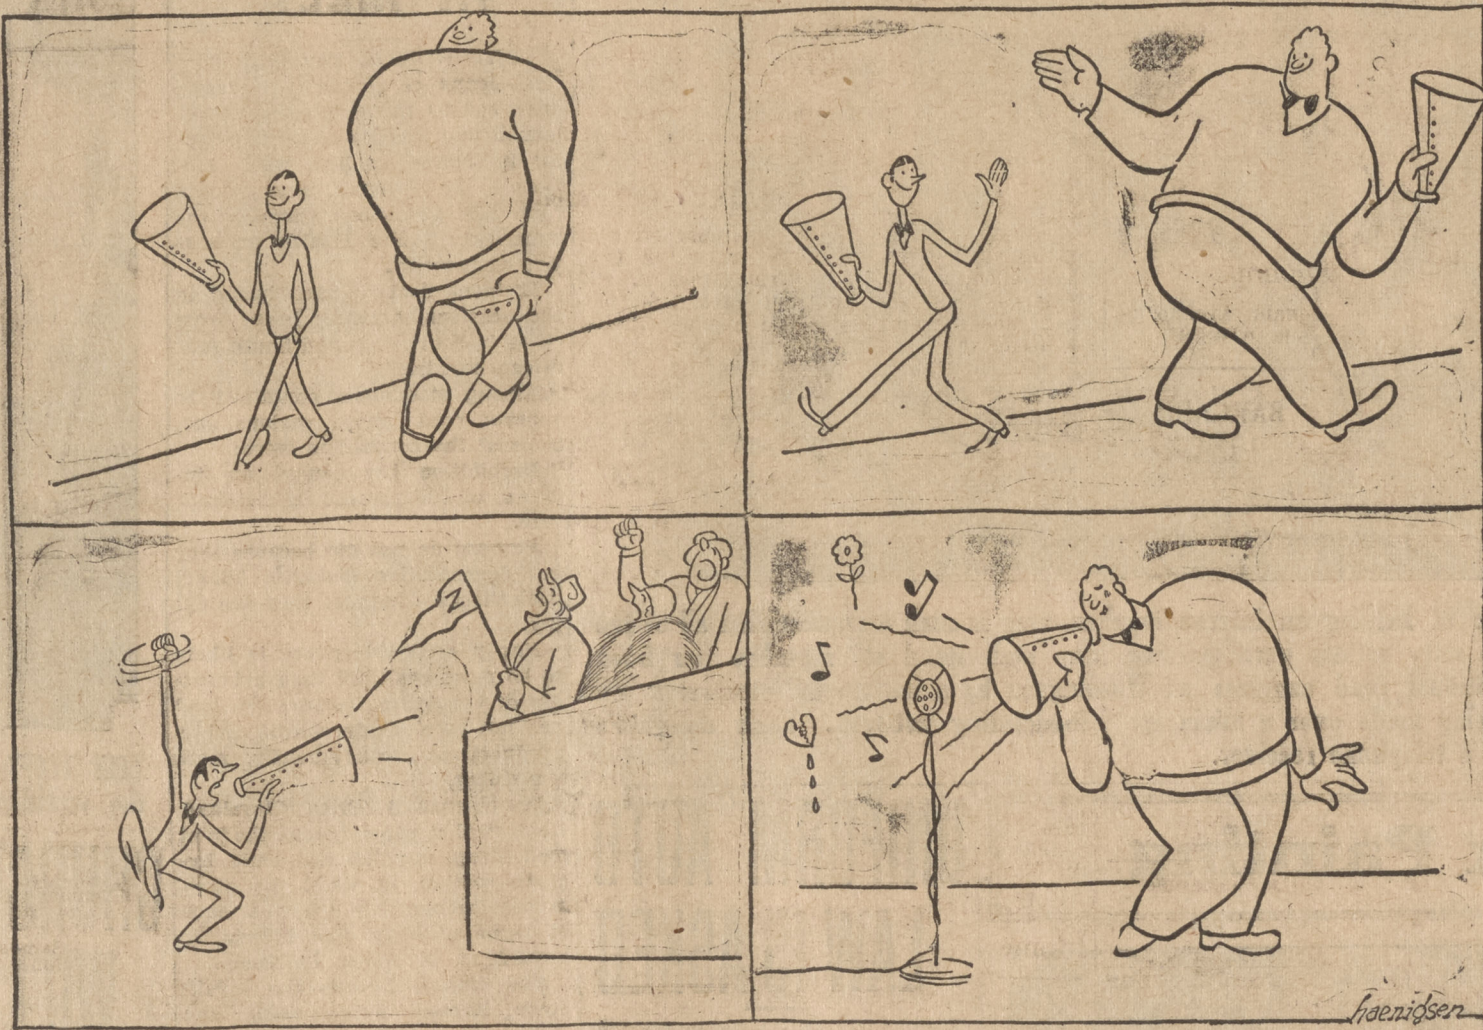

The favored luncheon and breakfast cloths for fall are in the pastel tones. Green is most in demand, and this color has a close following in the yellow, peach and rose. Women of conservative taste seem to like the rich ivory tint and these cloths are beautiful.

These tablecloths usually come 54 inches square and this is a popular size but every woman will want at least one in a 54x70 size for use when there are guests and an extra leaf must be added to the table. In sets the 54-inch cloth usually has six napkins and the larger one has eight or a dozen napkins.

the recipe I give you today. This is not even remotely related to the goulash school of Hungarian cooking, which calls for a profusion of vegetables, but a more simple method.

VEAL HONGROISE
1 1/2 to 2 pounds veal cutlet
3/4 cup flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons butter
4 very thin slices baked ham
1 cup small onions
1 cup diced celery
1 quart milk
Paprika
Cut the veal in individual portions and trim the slices of ham to the same size. Rub the veal with salt and pepper and dip in flour. Melt the butter and brown the veal in it on both sides. Place a section of ham under each piece of veal, add onions, celery and milk. Sprinkle generously with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven, or simmer over a low fire until meat and vegetables are tender and milk has been mostly absorbed. This will require from thirty to forty minutes.

You and Your Child

Children's Parties

LITTLE DONALD was having a birthday party. When all the children were seated at the table, screaming, laughing and pulling snappers, Donald quietly slid from the table. His mother found him outside on the porch. "Why, Donald, what's the matter?" she asked. "You oughtn't to run away at your own party." "Too much noise," the baby isped.

Elaborate parties, with a great many children, and large tables laden with food, are no kindness to little children, especially when they are sensitive like little Donald. A simple ice cream and cake affair, with just a few little ones, would give them far more pleasure. It seems as if parents have these large, expensive parties for their own enjoyment without considering the children for whom they are given.

So often youngsters are "naughty" when they come home from a party. They have been overstimulated and consequently they are overfatigued. And their stomachs are probably upset as well. So let us set a new style of giving very simple parties, with plain, easily digested food, and games that the children initiate themselves. And no prizes! I hate to watch the disappointment in the eyes of all the youngsters who have not been lucky enough to win prizes! Instead, let us give each child a favor, and then they will all be happy. What a pity, too, to dress little children up so that they are not free to enjoy themselves. It isn't fair to burden them in this way!

The older children, too, I think, would appreciate smaller, simpler affairs. Instead of having one or perhaps two elaborate and expensive parties during the year, why not allow them to have a few friends in, often? Having two or three friends over for a Saturday lunch, or a small "gang" of fellows for an evening, is usually more enjoyable than a set and formal affair. The children should have a hand in planning these simple functions. They can decide on the nature of the entertainment and the refreshments. Perhaps they can even help in the preparation of the food.

Children of all ages will have more real enjoyment at their parties if their clothes and food are simple, and if the entertainment is spontaneous! In giving the young ones parties let us consider their pleasure instead of our own!

Convenient Mops

THESE are long-handled wall brushes and there is a choice between lamb's wool, soft cotton twine and a soft bristled brush. Many housewives just slip a bag of cotton flannel, or fasten a cloth, over the broom and use this as a wall brush, but there is something better than this to slip over the broom. It is a mop that can be quickly attached to a broom and can be used either to clean the walls or floor. This mop can be easily washed, so it is an article to consider from the sanitary standpoint.

The ordinary long-handled mops save time and labor when compared to the hand scrubbing cloth or brush, and now there is a mop that eliminates stooping over to wring it. The handle has a rod running through it, and by turning a knob on the rod turns the mop and wrings it, which is a great convenience.

TELLING THE WORLD

ALL THE LATEST CONVENIENCES

FAST improvements in the science of stenography have been unfurled at the National Business Show now going on in New York. The year's biggest concession to stenographers are rounded corners for desks, chairs and wastebaskets so the girls won't catch a run in their chignon stockings and ruin them. It is now possible for a stenographer to work all day and not see a corner till she goes out to the curb at 5 P. M. to wait for her sweetie.

Other improvements are light-touch typewriting machines. Your secretary has hardly more than to point at a key to make the type bar slam down. The typewriter carriage slides back and forth by electricity, and she has only to tap her carmine finger-nail on an oxy push button to operate the back spacer. In another year it will be possible for your amanuensis to type a letter by just winking at the keyboard.

These new conveniences are all very nice for the stenographer, but where does the business man get off? What good does it do him for these devices to save his stenographer's time, if she spends this new leisure filling her fingernails and swabbing her nose with powder?

With all the great strides that business science has taken, it has not yet produced a single stenographer who can spell Schenectady right the first time. And with all those rounded corners to protect milady's chignon stockings, you will note the desk people were smart enough to leave a flat surface under the middle drawer where the stenographer can park her gun.

It seems to us we are simply pampering our stenogs. Give them push buttons and rounded corners this year, and next they will be asking for three-view mirrors in front of their nose and an automatic powder puff at the end of each paragraph. Business science has been so lavish with its improvements that the stenographers of 1935 will only have to push a row of buttons to get off their work. They will soon have ennui and boredom from the simplicity of their job, and then the next demand will be pushholes for the electric push buttons, with fresh gardenias in them.

A business man does everything possible to make work easy and attractive for his stenographer. And yet she goes right on thinking Rudy Vallee or Buddy Rogers is the most wonderful man on earth.

Now that heaven will protect the working girl's stockings, where does the boss come in? Those rounded corners are very convenient for his amanuensis, but he cannot put his feet up on that desk himself without their slipping off. The office furniture makers have been mighty solicitous about the safety and comfort of the stenographer, but have they got out a desk with deep drawers and cushioned sides where the boss's gin is safe? Not so you could notice it. Your secretary's hostility is now safe from runs and snags, thanks to science. But has anyone given a thought to the problem of protecting the boss's sleeve from rice powder and his lapel from blond hair? That is what business science should turn its attention to next. The stenographer has been getting all the breaks. It is time to give a thought to the tired business man.

Two Treatments of Different Problems That Point to Happy Solutions for Readers in Similar Circumstances

PROBLEM NO. 1

Dear Miss Zais: I have been following your articles with much interest. I am buying new rugs for all my rooms. The house is a dignified white stone. From the vestibule you enter the large foyer which opens into the library and living room. There are no doors. The library leads into my

They knew what they wanted, these young women who have voted for jobs plus homes. And they're getting it!

Yes, of course, the two-job girl, the two-job wife has to be healthy—but why should she not be? She has to work hard—but why should she not work hard? It isn't how hard you work that counts, it's the values you obtain from life in exchange for your work.

commended for the other rooms. The foyer illustrated shows a floor covered with marbleized linoleum which in this case proves a very striking stage upon which to set the decorative furniture and paintings. This is mostly a maroon or eggshell color. An excellent treatment for small halls and rather formal foyers and holds suggestions for many readers who find it difficult to make tiny halls attractive. If Mrs. J.'s hall is not too large—and if she likes the idea of this type of floor covering for the library—she might also find it acceptable for the hall which overlooks the library; in which case the stair carpeting should harmonize with the colors found in the cork tiling or linoleum.

And here we must append a warning! In selecting colors for carpeting everything depends upon what Mrs. J. intends to use for her curtains and upholstery. The one must be keyed to the others in order to produce a good effect. The colors suggested, however, are the least likely to conflict with what would naturally be used in these rooms.

Dear Miss Zais: I have several different types of furniture in my living room—French sofa and two chairs; modernistic end table; Chinese temple hanging; French hand-painted screen and an antique brass floor vase; also two small Dutch paintings on tiles.

I want very much to buy a rug for this room, which is 20x25. I haven't very much money, so I am considering buying a plain carpet. My furniture is mostly a maroon or eggshell color. What color rug would you suggest? I haven't any drapes yet, so that I could easily decide the color of the rug without considering my window treatment.

By the way, what do you advise regarding an Oriental, such as a Sarouk? My friends seem to be in favor, but I can't decide because I seem to think that Orientals, no matter at what price, make every room look alike—and I'm striving to give my home a little individuality. What do you say?

STUDENTS HEAR SOUTH AFRICA ADDRESS

The students of Richmond union high school were yesterday morning addressed by C. H. Hamilton, representative of the South African government railways, and V. H. Pickney, president of the South African Dispatch teamship lines.

Hamilton spoke in an interesting manner upon the South African Union, in which country he has lived for 28 years. He outlined the history of South Africa and described the customs and scenery of that country. His talk was illustrated by a motion picture on South Africa.

Following Hamilton's address, Pickney spoke to the students on foreign trade. He stressed the value of transportation in efficient trading, and also pointed out that trade transactions must be carried out with the utmost care and diplomacy.

The two talks by Hamilton and Pickney were given under the auspices of the foreign trade class at Richmond union high school. The speakers were introduced by Principal B. X. Tucker.

It is:

BASED on the California Tax Commission's findings that the electric railways "bear a disproportionately large tax burden."

EIGHT DROWNED IN WRECK OF YACHT

in the lifeboat and other vessels had ridden by at night when the cries of the six found no ear.

Eight Dead

The dead were E. G. Valverde, a west Indian negro and owner of the Barbados; Mrs. Hattie Valverde, his wife; John R. Smith, of Seattle, chief engineer; J. F. Walker of Orland, Fla., assistant engineer; George Franklin, negro seaman; George A. Watt, west Indian cook, and A. O. Walters, negro mess boy.

Of these the first five perished aboard the ship. The other three failed to survive the immersion and exposure and were buried at sea from the lifeboat.

The rescued men were L. W. Hough, of Long Beach, Cal., master of the stricken vessel; Henry Pfeiffer, Brooklyn, first mate; Joseph A. Valverde, cousin of the owner and second mate; and B. H. Lawrence, Augustus Lynch and Alexander Allenby, west Indian seamen.

Was Yacht

The Barbados was a converted yacht, registered at 33 tons. It pulled away from New York Friday night, with Valverde intending to place it in inter-island trade in the West Indies.

Winds approaching gale force hammered the vessel on its way down the Jersey coast. Waves rolled over the decks and water shot into the hold, then engines were all but rendered useless as there was not enough steam to keep the freighter's head into the storm.

By Saturday night the Barbados was lying trough-high and pitching heavily. During the evening a cylinder head blew off and two seamen were injured but Captain Hough still believed the ship seaworthy.

Ship Sinks

So, apparently, did the Valverdes as they went to their cabin to sleep. But soon after midnight the vessel rode lower and the captain gave orders to prepare a lifeboat. He sent a messenger below to awaken the Valverdes and assigned his men to duties in abandoning the ship.

Scarcely had the messenger started, however, than the Barbados dived into the sea. Only at the last moment was the aft lifeboat unlashed and it, together with nine men, was soon swirling in the angry waters that quickly had swallowed the vessel.

Six Saved

After six men had clambered aboard the lifeboat they cruised about and picked up the other three shortly to succumb to exposure.

Captain Davidson, on the bridge of the Mallory, thought he heard a human note in the blasts of the wind. He slowed down his ship, maneuvered for several minutes and had about decided that he was mistaken when his searchlight picked up the lifeboat. The six men still screaming and waving frantically, were outlined in the glare.

The ship was jockeyed about, a Jacob's ladder was put down and the sextet, probably only hours away from death, was saved.
